How Can We Help You in the Field of Lubrication Maintenance

Every day, companies face unforeseen machine downtime or problems due to human error. This happens to all organizations, no matter how short or long they exist. What sets these organizations apart is their ability to identify the causes of these failures, eliminate them and prevent the problem from happening again. At I-care we do everything we can to support the customer.

One of those options is to have a fully equipped lubricant storage facility installed on site. This is fully customized to the wishes of the customer. This way you are always provided with the right materials.

It is important to have your lubrication
plan in order

WORKING WITH THE SAFE APPROACH

Supervision

We must listen to our customers and share our knowledge and expertise for the benefit of your company. We make an inventory of your needs and process this in a clear and well-arranged plan.

Analyze

We provide analysis for your company. We process these analyzes in clear reports so that you remain up-to-date. We work with the I-Lube platform for this. We also make a baseline measurement of your plant and issue advice on how to optimize your processes.

Field training

We train your staff. In this way we provide qualified personnel on location. We have a wide range of training courses and can also offer in-house training.

Equipment

We ensure that you as a customer are provided with the right materials to carry out the lubrication activities as (cost) efficiently as possible. In addition, we also have an extensive package of solutions for the automatic lubrication of (critical) assets. We even have solutions where the condition of your machine is continuously monitored in combination with automatic lubrication to enable condition-based lubrication.
